

Good Stories for Great Birthdays

Across

3. There is no historical _____ here. (7)
6. It was General _____ who had founded the new and great Republic of Colombia, and had given it a constitutional government. He was now come to Guayaquil on his way to liberate Peru. (7)
7. Christopher Columbus was The Very Magnificent Lord Don _____ Colon, High Admiral of the Ocean Sea, Viceroy and Governor of the Islands and Tierra

Down

1. The emphasis in this book is upon American _____. (10)
2. John Adams was born in _____, Massachusetts, October 30, 1735. (9)
4. For Columbus, you must know, was one of the most devout Christian men of his time. And he signed his name to letters, "Christ Bearing." _____ in the Greek language, means Christ-Bearer. (11)

- Firma. (9)
8. In Peru, there was Tupac Amaru, the brave young Indian Cacique, a descendant of the "Child of the Sun" whom Pizarro conquered. He tried to liberate his people from _____, but was captured with all his family, and put to death. (5)
 9. To-day, high on a ridge of the Andes Mountains, high, high above the level of the sea, stands a gigantic bronze monument. It is a figure raised on a pedestal. In one hand it holds a _____, while it extends the other hand in blessing. (5)
 11. Though _____'s existence was miserable, he received comfort from his books, for he delighted to read. In his cell after his death, were found Horace, Virgil, Cicero, Don Quixote,--and even a copy of the New Testament. (7)
 12. When William Penn died in England, the Indians sent his wife a message, mourning the loss of their "honoured brother ____." And with the message went a present of beautiful skins for a cloak "to protect her while passing through the thorny wilderness without her guide." (4)
 14. Getting into their canoe again, they rounded Indian Point and Fox Point, and sailed up a beautiful sheet of water, skirting a dense forest, to a spot near the mouth of the Mooshausick _____. (5)
 15. Penn named his land, "Sylvania"; but the _____ called it Penn-sylvania, in honour of old Admiral Penn, William Penn's father. (4)
 16. "All men are created equal," and have the right "to Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness." Many of the Signers were _____-holders. (5)
 17. Then the South American Liberator was held in such high esteem here, that after the death of Washington his family sent Bolivar several relics of the national hero of the United States, including locks of Washington's _____. (4)
 18. As soon as the Army reached the lowlands, Bolivar lost no time in preparing for battle. With his men, he took his stand at the Bridge of _____. (6)
 22. William Penn published a "Plan for the Peace of _____," urging the formation of a league of European countries. (6)
 24. The only people were the dark-skinned ones, whom Columbus named Indians; for he was sure that he had come across the Sea of Darkness by the Western Passage to _____. (5)
 5. It was then that Columbus saw for the first time the _____ which were to help ruin him, and which were to work wretchedness and death for so many poor Indian folk. (6)
 9. And there were savages, naked dark-skinned folk, who peeped from behind trees, or ran frightened away. Later they grew bolder, and traded with Columbus and his men. Some of the savages smoked rolls of dried leaves. This was the first tobacco that white men had ever seen. Thus Columbus and his men discovered Indian _____, and tobacco. (4)
 10. The boy soldier's name was Jose de San Martin. Jose, is Spanish for _____. (6)
 13. The Sea of Darkness was a mysterious gloomy sea no longer, instead it was the wide _____ Ocean, a safe pathway for brave mariners and good ships, a pathway leading to new lands of gold and spices far toward the setting sun. (8)
 19. Benjamin Franklin, when a boy, used to work in his father's shop at the Sign of the Blue Ball. His father was a tallow _____, and made soap and candles. (8)
 20. Columbus talked with sailors about their voyages. He heard how the waves of the Sea of Darkness sometimes cast upon the Islands of the Azores, gigantic bamboos, queer trees, strange nuts, seeds, carved logs, and bodies of hideous ____ with flat faces, the flotsam and jetsam from unknown lands far to the west. (3)
 21. Christopher Columbus's father was an Italian _____. (6)
 23. To send a rattlesnake-skin meant an _____, he said. It was the same as sending a challenge. (5)
 25. Because of _____ restrictions, the Roosevelt section is somewhat limited. (9)
 26. As for Lafayette, he was soon after carried to the town of _____ in Pennsylvania, and left with the Moravian Nuns. (9)
 27. "My father," John Marshall would say with kindled feelings and emphasis, "my father was a far abler man than any of his sons. To him I owe the solid foundation of all my own success in ____." (4)
 28. The Chief advanced, and in the Sachem's name saluted him, and taking William _____ by the hand, made a speech pledging kindness and neighbourliness, saying that the English and the Lenni Lenapé should live together in love, so long as the sun and the moon should endure. (4)
 30. When our War for Independence was

27. Above all else, may this book, day by day, help mothers and educators to bring to the children's remembrance on these great birthdays, something of the devotion, the patience, the sufferings, and the personal sacrifice of the noble men, who, under the good hand of God, laid the foundations of American _____ and Self-Government. (7)
29. To-day, the Island of Cuba the "Ever-_____ Island," the "Pearl of the Antilles," is a flourishing Republic with a world commerce. And during the World War, the red, white, and blue, single-bestarred Flag of Cuba, waved over a brave Cuban Army, the ally of the United States. (8)
32. What that _____ was, strange as it may seem, no record tells us. It was not the Stars and Stripes, for they were not adopted till two years after. (4)
34. When Columbus was a boy, there was a story told that the Earth was _____. Nearly every one who heard it thought it foolish--absurd. (5)
36. Above all things, Dom Pedro wanted to stimulate the love of _____ among his People, to give the boys and girls of every class an equal chance. Free public schools were established all over the Empire. (9)
38. In those days, it was a crime in England for any one to hold or attend religious meetings of Separatists. The _____ printed in the English tongue, had long been forbidden reading, but in William Bradford's days, it was beginning to be read quite widely, specially by Separatists. (5)
40. When Napoleon's Army threatened to invade Portugal, the Royal Family of Portugal fled in terror of their lives. They escaped from Lisbon, crossed the Atlantic, and found refuge in the royal Colony of _____. (6)
41. The Holy Allies conspired to put down all democratic principles, and stamp out all representative government from Europe. They also conspired to prevent the formation of any new Republics in other parts of the World, and to chain the liberty of the _____, which is the Voice of the People. Thus these Holy Allies joined forces to uphold the divine right of Kings and the tyranny of absolute monarchies. (5)
42. One time, the Emperor learned that 3,000,000 francs had been pledged by citizens for a fine bronze statue of himself to be given the place of honour in a city over, he returned to Poland. He became her leading Patriot, defending her against the invasions of Russia, Prussia, and Austria. "Father _____" his men called him, as he led them into battle. (8)
31. There were children on the Mayflower —Oceanus Hopkins who was born at sea, Peregrine{133} White who gave his first baby-cry soon after the Mayflower reached the New World, Francis Billington who almost blew up the Mayflower, while trying to make _____, and John Billington. (9)
33. _____ was the name which Marco Polo gave to China. (6)
35. Roosevelt found on his return home that some geographers and South American explorers laughed at his story of the River of _____. He laughed, too, at their incredulity; and presently the Brazilian Government, having established the truth of his exploration and named the river after him, Rio Teodoro, his laughter prevailed. (5)
36. In the chief city of Cathay the Golden, ruled over by _____ Khan, stood the Grand Khan's palace. (6)
37. A negro drove the team, and a negro girl walked behind. So went little John Marshall with his father and mother, from the log cabin to their new Blue Ridge home, which was not a ___ cabin, but a frame house built of whipsawed uprights and boards. (3)
39. But little Abe had the best teacher of all, his mother, Nancy Lincoln. For, though his father could scarcely write his own name, his mother could read, and she loved _____. She taught her little son his letters and how to read. (5) square. Dom Pedro, expressing his deep gratitude, said that it would please him far more if the money could be used for public _____ instead. (7)